

DNest ❤️

"Our little place, no matter the distance."

Product Requirements Document – Project Description

1. Overview

DNest is a private, intimate digital space built exclusively for two people in a long-distance relationship. It is not a messaging app, not a video-calling app, and not a social network – couples already have WhatsApp, FaceTime, and Instagram for that. DNest exists for everything those apps don't do well: preserving memories, feeling emotionally close across time zones, planning the next time you'll be together, and sharing small, meaningful moments that would otherwise get lost in a chat thread.

Think of it as a shared scrapbook, a diary, and a countdown clock – all wrapped into one private "nest" that belongs only to the two of you.

2. The Problem

Long-distance couples don't struggle to talk – they struggle with everything around talking:

- Meaningful memories get buried in endless chat scrollback and forgotten.
- There's no single place that captures "the story of us."
- The distance between visits feels abstract and hard to emotionally track.
- Small romantic gestures (a "thinking of you," a sweet note) get lost among everyday texts.
- Planning the next time you'll see each other happens across scattered notes, screenshots, and voice notes.
- Couples run out of new things to do together despite wanting to feel connected.

DNest solves this by giving the relationship its own dedicated home – separate from the noise of daily messaging.

3. Vision

DNest should feel like a private world that belongs to just the two of you – warm, personal, and calm, never like a social feed or a dating app. Opening DNest should feel like walking into a cozy room the two of you built together, not logging into another productivity tool.

The emotional promise: "No matter how far apart we are, this is our place."

4. Who It's For

- Couples separated by cities, states, or countries – students abroad, military partners, immigrants, remote workers, or anyone dating across distance.
- Couples who already use other apps to talk daily but want something deeper to hold their shared history and future plans.
- Both partners must opt in together – DNest only works as a two-person, mutually created space.

5. Core Experience

The heart of DNest is a simple, repeating loop:

Open the app → feel connected to your partner → do one small meaningful thing together → your partner discovers and responds to it → your shared history grows a little richer.

Everything in the product supports this loop.

6. Key Features (Described, Not Technical)

🏠 Home

A warm daily dashboard that greets you by name, shows your partner's local time, the distance between you, how long you've been together, and a live countdown to your next meetup. It's the emotional "front door" of the relationship.

📸 Moments

The most important feature. Couples save meaningful memories – a title, photos, a story, a mood, and a category (first date, trip, birthday, funny moment, everyday memory, etc.). Over time, these Moments automatically build into a beautiful, scrollable Relationship Timeline – a living history of the relationship from day one.

📅 On This Day

Old memories resurface automatically. "2 years ago today, you had your first coffee date" – complete with the original photos and story, like a gentle emotional time machine.

📖 Memory Book

💌 Love Notes

Short, intentional love messages that live outside of regular chat – sweet, sincere, and meant to be kept, not scrolled past. Notes can even be scheduled to arrive at the perfect moment in your partner's time zone (like "Good morning" waiting for them when they wake up).

❤️ Thinking of You

One tap sends a simple, wordless signal – "I'm thinking about you" – for the moments when you don't need a whole conversation, just a small reminder that you're loved.

😊 Daily Mood

A one-tap daily check-in on how each partner is feeling, shown gently to the other – not scored or judged, just a quiet way to stay emotionally in sync.

💬 Daily Couple Question

A new question each day for both partners to answer independently ("What's something you want us to experience together?"). Answers stay hidden until both have responded, turning it into a small daily ritual of discovery.

🎮 Together (Virtual Date Ideas)

When you're both free but far apart, DNest suggests things to do together – quick 15-minute games, 30-minute shared activities, or full virtual date nights – including a "Surprise Us" option for when you can't decide.

🎯 Couple Challenges

Light, fun multi-day activities like "7 Days of Appreciation" or "Photo Week" that give couples a shared reason to check in daily, without turning into a competitive streak game.

✈️ Next Meetup & Countdown

A prominent, emotional countdown to the next time you'll physically be together – arguably the single most important number for a long-distance couple.

✅ Meetup Planning

A shared checklist for planning your time together – flights, hotels, restaurants, activities – so both partners are involved in building the visit, not just anticipating it.

🌍 Couple Wishlist

A shared "someday" list of dreams – trips to take, things to try, places to see – that can move from Dream to Planning to Done, and even turn into a saved Moment once completed.

📍 Memory Map

A map of your relationship – pins showing where your first date happened, where you traveled together, where meaningful moments took place.

🗝️ Time Capsule

Either partner can lock away a message, photos, or a prediction to be opened on a future date – an anniversary, a birthday, or "someday." It stays sealed until that date arrives, then unlocks like a gift.

🎉 Important Dates

A shared calendar for birthdays, anniversaries, and milestones, so nothing meaningful is ever forgotten.

📊 Our Relationship Stats & Recaps

Fun (never evaluative) numbers like "823 days together," "127 moments saved," or "18 places visited" – plus monthly and yearly recaps that summarize the story of your relationship so far, like a highlight reel.

7. Tone & Feel

DNest should feel warm, intimate, and quietly romantic – never loud, gamified, or clinical. It should never turn love into a scoreboard or a productivity metric. The emotional core of every feature is the same: make the distance feel a little smaller, and the relationship feel a little more real.

8. Product Principles

1. Not another chat app. DNest never tries to replace WhatsApp or FaceTime – it complements them.
2. Two people only. No feeds, no followers, no public sharing – DNest is deliberately private.
3. Memories over messages. The product favors things that last (a saved Moment) over things that disappear (a text).
4. Feelings, not metrics. Moods, streaks, and stats exist to bring couples closer, never to judge or compare.
5. Small daily rituals. The product succeeds through small, low-effort, meaningful daily touchpoints – not heavy usage.
6. Built around distance. Every feature should make sense specifically for a couple who can't be in the same room.

9. Success Looks Like

- Both partners open DNest daily, even briefly, without it feeling like a chore.

- Couples build a growing archive of memories they'd actually want to look back on years later.
- The countdown to the next meetup becomes something both partners genuinely look forward to seeing.
- DNest becomes the natural home for "the story of us" – something a couple would be sad to lose.

DNest – Our little place, no matter the distance. ❤️
